CompetePA Coalition Opposes Proposed Business Tax Increases

Calls for structural business tax changes that promote capital investment & job creation

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 16, 2009 – The CompetePA coalition formed in 2005 with the goal of bringing the business community together around a common set of priorities. These priorities – removing the cap on net operating loss carryforwards (NOL), creating a single sales factor apportionment formula (SSF) and ensuring the phase-out of the capital stock and franchise tax (CSFT) – have remained the same. More than 130 businesses and business organizations that are members of CompetePA have been diligent in attempting to accomplish gains to improve the business climate for the Commonwealth over the last four years.

The members of the CompetePA coalition are opposed to the recent changes that have been proposed to the phase-out of the CSFT. From any credible economic development perspective, such proposals represent a step backwards for business. Pennsylvania is one of the only states in the nation to tax both business income and business assets. Halting the phase-out of the CSFT will stall, not encourage, economic recovery. Moreover, adding to that concern is that this proposed business tax increase is not accompanied by any modest, though key, structural business tax changes that have been a priority of the collective business community for several years – removing the cap on net operating loss carryforwards or creating a single sales factor apportionment formula.

Now more than ever, the Pennsylvania businesses that pay their taxes are in dire need of relief in order to continue to encourage capital investment and job creation. Improvements such as removing Pennsylvania's cap on the NOL carryforwards and creating a SSF apportionment formula would provide some of that relief in a responsible manner. As is the case in nearly every other state, except Pennsylvania, manufacturers and other high technology firms whose business models are cyclical by nature need to see improvements in the current NOL cap to offset future liabilities with current losses. In addition, all Pennsylvania businesses should be encouraged, not punished, for increased capital investment and job creation, as is the purpose for an increased sales factor apportionment.

CompetePA recognizes the significance of the current state budget shortfall. However, creating a balanced budget can be done. There is precedent. As of July 8, 2009, 32 states eliminated their deficits and passed state budgets without enacting broad-based tax increases. Now more than ever, Pennsylvania needs to send the message that we have a competitive business climate. When the economy recovers, let's make Pennsylvania one of the first places to grow new jobs, not the last.
