

Zachary Koshgarian is an analyst and state policy lead for the Nuclear Innovation Alliance. His research, stakeholder engagement and advocacy focus on state policy, project finance, and advanced nuclear energy policy more broadly, to help NIA achieve its mission. Throughout his undergraduate and graduate work, his research focused on spent nuclear fuel management and different social models for long-term waste disposition.

